COURSE OVERVIEW:

This course covers the basic principles of public speaking. Students learn how to handle nerves, organize and deliver a formal presentation, and use verbal and non-verbal communication to connect with their audience. During class, students learn to use their own communication style while adapting their message for a variety of audiences. Students present several speeches in a safe and comfortable environment. Throughout the semester lectures focus on use of language, narratives, vocal variation, basic techniques for public speaking, and effective methods to overcome the fear of speaking in front of a large audience or small group of people.

All written and oral assignments must be done in order to complete the course. Public speaking is a participation course - presenting, listening, observing, giving feedback, and learning from the content and delivery of others. Attendance is therefore critical.

2. Informative speech
3. Persuasive speech
4. Impromptu speech

The first draft of your speech outline must be submitted before your presentation at the designated submission date, and the final copy of your outline must be submitted immediately after you deliver your speech.

There will be a written, take home, final exam. (Undergraduate-credit 3-5 pages, Graduate-credit 5-7 pages)

REQUIRED CONFERENCE MEETING:

In addition to the scheduled class times, each student will be required to meet for a 20-minute private session with the course instructor during the semester. Students will have the opportunity to sign up for a time slot that is convenient for their schedule during the first week of class. These meetings take place either on campus, via telephone or Zoom.

Coursework Policies and Assignment Policies

The Summer School is committed to providing an accessible academic community. The Accessibility Office offers a variety of accommodations and services to students with documented disabilities. Please visit <http://www.summer.harvard.edu/resources-policies/accessibility-services> for more information.

You are responsible for understanding Harvard Summer School policies on academic integrity (<http://www.summer.harvard.edu/policies/student-responsibilities>) and how to use sources responsibly. Not knowing the rules, misunderstanding the rules, running out of time, submitting the wrong draft, or being overwhelmed with multiple demands are not acceptable excuses. To support your learning about academic citation rules, please visit the Resources to Support Academic Integrity (<http://www.summer.harvard.edu/resources-policies/resources-support-academic-integrity>) where you will find links to the Harvard Guide to Using Sources (<https://usingsources.fas.harvard.edu>) and two free online 15-minute tutorials to test your knowledge of academic citation policy. The tutorials are anonymous open-learning tools.

Assignments

The dates you will give your speeches are posted in this syllabus and the Canvas class website. If you have a conflict with ANY of these dates, you must notify the teaching staff immediately to request a specific date in advance. More detailed information about assignments, readings, and speech requirements will be posted on the Canvas website throughout the course of the semester. If you have any trouble accessing the class website, you must inform your instructor or TA immediately.

Remember, unless there is a MAJOR health issue or emergency, you are REQUIRED to give your speech on the date assigned. If you do not, your grade will be reduced. It is important to keep to the schedule in order to fit in all the speeches. We understand that work/life scheduling conflicts may arise; however, you are expected to attend every class without exception.

Attendance

This is a participatory, presentation-based class. Being present and on time is not only courteous, it is IMPERATIVE. Late arrivals will count toward your overall grade. More than two late arrivals to class will lower your final grade by one mark (e.g. from A to A-). More than one ab-
