

They are black, white and gray triangles to show a world robbed of color through war.