

Musa al-Gharbi, A Lack of Ideological Diversity is Killing Social Research

1. According to Musa al-Gharbi, what negative consequences result from the underrepresentation of conservatives among university faculty in the social and behavioral sciences? Address especially the problems he perceives for the quality of research and the relationship between universities and the larger society.